Russian Studies Concentration Requirements

Administered by the International and Global Studies Program.

The IGS Program prepares students to study abroad through two core classes, language proficiency, and 18 credits of classes focused on your concentration.

- 30 credits at the 200 level and above.
- No requirements for the major can be met by a grade lower than C-.
- Completion of an approved International/Global Experience. Students are required to complete a minimum of six (6) credits in a study abroad program or a Qualified Alternative approved by the program head.
- IGS encourages its students to double major to combine the breadth of international studies with the depth of a disciplinary major. At least 12 of the 18 credit hours of IGS Concentration Courses must be distinct from the courses applied to your second major.
